

If you need access to a shared/non-personal mailbox then you will need to contact the owner of the mailbox who will be able to grant you access by following the process outlined below.

The following guide will explain how the owner of a shared/non-personal mailbox can grant other users permission to access it. Please note you will need to know the login details for the mailbox in question as you must log in to the mailbox directly to do this.

Logon to the Non-personal mailbox by opening an "Incognito" tab and logging in at office.com with the account details.

- Open Outlook down the left
- Right click "Folders" down the left and select "Permissions"
- Click the + icon
- Type the name of the person you want or choose the name from the Address List and select the name when you find it.
- Click the Add button and then click OK
- Your colleague will be entered into the permissions box with the default permission level of None
- Change the Permission Level by clicking the down arrow. As you change the permission level the boxes beneath alter to show what access you are allowing. The basic permissions you can grant are as follows:

None	No permissions granted. The delegate cannot open the folder.
Reviewer	Read items and messages only.
Author	Read, modify and delete items and messages that you have created and reply on your behalf.
Editor	Read, modify, create and delete items and messages. Messages will be sent out in your default name.
Publishing Editor	Create, read, modify and delete all items and files.
Owner	Create, read, modify and delete all items and files, and create subfolders. Can change permission levels other have for the folder.

CAUTION: You will see entries for Default and Anonymous, please do not alter or delete these as they are required for Office 365 Services should you need assistance with your mailbox.

- Once you have decided on the permission level and added all colleagues required, click Apply and then OK

Don't forget:

You now need to do the same for each folder within your mailbox that you wish to allow your colleagues to see.

For example, if your colleague needs to view your Inbox and Deleted Items folders you will need to allow access to your Mailbox first and then the Inbox and Deleted Items folders.
